

Boundaries of Memory

Sudesh Balan

Boundaries of Memory is a short fictional film about an elderly person’s search for a son, whose name is resonating in his fading memory. This film is a part of academic research on making cost-effective films for delivering social messages without losing cinematic value. Unlike a traditional joint family, the current nuclear families lack the much-needed human infrastructure for nursing senior citizens at home.

The movie is set in the southern state Kerala, where many younger members in the family migrate abroad for better job prospects. Movie was selected in the Panorama Section in 47th International Film Festival of India Goa.
