- It is essential in our life to grow up with both our parents — their love and their support (financial and mental) help us to grow and stand on our feet.

- But what about when one of the parent does not exist in their life?
- Then both the children and the parent both face so many problems.
- There are lots of children in the world growing up with a single parent.

- There are some reasons for having a single parent, like death of one parent, a break-up, abandonment by one parent or divorce and many more.

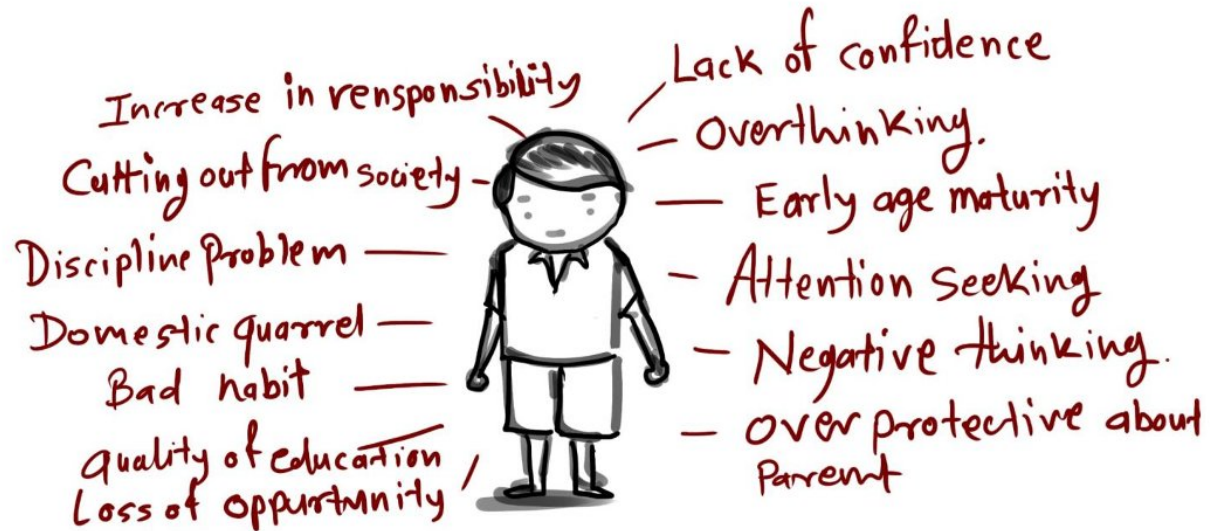

When one parent has passed away from a child's life early then what are the drawbacks of having a single parent?

- Financial
- Emotional
- Mental health¹⁻

Some Common Problem

- Being overprotective
- Overthinking
- Maturity at an early age
- Lack of confidence
- Increase in responsibility
- Disciplinary problem
